

Easter Exercises.

The Mystery Play given by the children of the Sunday school was quite out of the ordinary for St. Andrew's church, but was instructive and pleasing both to those who participated and those who listened. The children all took the parts well, and the group of children with their banners made a very pretty picture. Ray Spaulding made some interesting remarks. Prayer books and hymnals were presented to Reginald Fisk and Ada Burns, by St. Margaret's Guild, for the most regular attendance at Sunday school during the year. Helen and Alice Burns had equally as good records, but in the allotment of the prize Miss Ada was the recipient. A prize of $1.00 was also presented to Harry Salmon for the best interest in preparing for the Easter music during Lent. This prize was offered by John McCarthy.

Nevins' cantata "Easterday" was given at the North church Sunday morning by the quartette choir assisted by Mrs. Harry M. Cross, Mrs. P. E. Hazen, H. N. Wood and Raymond Shepard. The floral display from the Undercliffe conservatory was a beautiful reminder of the day, and the pulpit was banked with flowers. In the front row were azaleas with rows of tulips, jonquils and Easter lilies ranged behind. On each side of the embankment of flowers were pots of broom. The Easter concert by the Sunday school was given for the first time in the afternoon and at the close the friends at Undercliffe presented each child with a flower.

The Sunday school concert at the South church was given at the vesper service and included music and recitations by the pupils. Miss Glenn Robinson assisted in the musical program with violin, and selections were sung by a double quartet from the school. Azaleas and poet's narcissus made very pretty decoration in the church, and at the morning service Mrs. Maud Elliot assisted in the choir.

Easter passed off very pleasantly at the Church of the Messiah with large congregations both morning and evening. A feature of the splendid music of the morning was an anthem with bell accompaniment. The concert of the evening was most pleasing. It seemed most fitting to see so many bright children's faces among the Easter lilies. Seven adults were taken into the church in the morning, five men and two women. A beautiful new individual communion set has been presented to the church in memory of E. F. Brown and Mrs. Volney Powers.

Grace Methodist church was filled to overflowing Sunday evening to hear the concert given by the members of the Sunday school. The members of Elmer Carr's class of Gideon Knights had the decorations in charge and they were very artistic. The flowers and plants were distributed in the congregation after the service. A very large offering was given for foreign missions, and the concert was greatly enjoyed.

Sporting Notes.

Pat Doyle, Co. D '07-'08, was in town last week on his way to Newport, N. H. Pat had many pleasant things to say of McKeesport and their basketball team, but said that the money question was all that kept him away from St. Johnsbury.

Manager Barrett had his base ball squad out on the campus last evening for their first light practice. Although only two veterans remain, Ben thinks he has a team brewing that will give any of them a rub.

Skeets Wright has finished his basketball season in Jersey City and will collect for the Luter Piano Company until he leaves for Ocean Grove, June 20.

St. Johnsbury Academy's loss is Goddard's gain in the shifting of Chappell, the all round athlete, to the latter institution. Incidentally the next Goddard five will be made up of three from this place and two from the rest of the world, if the other two are needed.

After considerable scouting around and numerous inquiries we find the local base ball situation just as it was last Christmas. Seems as though a town of this size ought to have some representation in the national game.

The I-told-you-soes will get busy after Cy Young's first game with the Naps, no matter which way it goes. We rather guess, though, that it will go for the grand old man.

Hose Company No. 4 paid their forfeit to No. 6 by banqueting the latter organization at Stoller's restaurant, Saturday evening. A full course dinner was served and the company then repaired to No. 4 hose house, where the evening wound up with an old-fashioned smoker.

Chief Engineer Blodgett's recognition of the prowess of the Summerville fire ladders on the alders was a real live rooster. Foreman Boyne of No. 4 hasn't given up hope yet, however, and is strongly of the belief that before long Mr. Bird will be crowing on the hill.

RECENT DEATHS.

Spencer.

The community was saddened and startled Friday evening to learn of the sudden death of George W. Spencer, who dropped dead at his home early in the evening. Mr. Spencer had not been in his usual good health this winter and died of heart failure.

He was born at East Burke, March 14, 1834, being the son of Willard and Mary Paddock Spencer. His boyhood years were spent at his native town, where on Sept. 7, 1854, he married Emily Kesia Cushing. When the war broke out Mr. Spencer went to Washington and was attached to the bureau of subsistence under Gen. Eaton. He served his country all through the war in the commissary department, being in Washington when Lincoln was assassinated and also when the final review of the Union troops was held. He came to St. Johnsbury in 1864 and entered Fairbanks store as a clerk. Except for a few years in the Central market on Main street, first under the firm name of Spencer & Pearl and later Spencer, Pearl & Merriam, he has been connected with Fairbanks store over 40 years and for most of that time he has been its efficient manager. His long service in this capacity gave him a wide acquaintance, and it was due to his energy and enterprise that the products of this store had a market far beyond the borders of this state.

His wife, died Feb. 24, 1902. To them were born five children, Henry, Robert and Carrie all died of diphtheria in 1894 and were buried in one grave. He leaves one son, Carl McLellan, who is with the Merchants & Bankers Fire Insurance Company of Des Moines, Ia., and a daughter, Anna Estlin, wife of George H. Frost of Brookline, Mass. There are also five grandchildren, Robert, Kathleen, Harold and George W. Spencer, Jr., of Des Moines, and Agnes Estlin Frost of Brookline, Mass. A wide circle of friends sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

Mr. Spencer joined the North Congregational church in 1875 and was a faithful attendant at its services. Though never active in politics he took a keen interest in public affairs and good government and always supported those measures that helped in the social uplift of St. Johnsbury. Possessed of a warm heart and a sunny disposition he was a man that everybody loved and one who will be greatly missed.

The funeral was held at his late residence yesterday afternoon conducted by his pastor, Rev. George W. C. Hill, assisted by Rev. Edward T. Fairbanks. The latter spoke most appreciatively of Mr. Spencer's honorable methods of doing business, treating all alike and insisting on absolute honesty in all his business dealings. There was a profusion of floral tributes including designs from Chase & Sanborn of Boston, the grocery store force, one representing all departments of the scale shops, from the foreman of the factory, who called him out friend of 40 years, and from many other personal friends and relatives. The bearers were Henry E. Byron, W. W. Blodgett, Frank N. Brown, Henry A. Holder, A. S. Crane and Charles W. Steele and the interment was in the family lot at Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Wesley.

The death of Minnie L. Danforth, wife of Rev. J. L. Wesley, occurred at Brightlook Hospital, last Wednesday, following an operation the day previous. She had been somewhat of an invalid for the past 20 years, but her late illness had been only of about three weeks' duration. She was born in Pittsburg, N. H., December 11, 1861, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell S. Danforth, and was married to Mr. Wesley in Colebrook, N. H., June 15, 1882. They lived in Colebrook about seven years, after which he preached at the Methodist churches in Bloomfield, Canaan and Winhall, then supplied a number in various places, and preached for three years at North Danville before coming here. They came to St. Johnsbury about eight years ago, and since coming here Mr. Wesley has himself built the house in which they live. For the past three years he has preached in Elmore. Mrs. Wesley is survived by one sister, Mary Danforth, who was for five years a missionary from the Methodist denomination in Japan, and who since her return has lectured under the auspices of the foreign missionary department of the Methodist church, being considered one of the finest women preachers in the world. Her mother died Monday at her home in Colebrook, aged 70 years, and her funeral will be held Thursday. She also leaves her husband and three children, Miss Mary, a teacher, John, a student at Dartmouth, and Walter, at home. The funeral was held at her home Friday afternoon, her pastor, Rev. J. M. Frost, officiating, assisted by Presiding Elder F. W. Lewis, who made remarks, and by Rev. M. H. Smith of Concord, who offered prayer. Solos were sung by Mrs. D. C. Stiles.

Coming from a family of stalwart, heroic faith, Mrs. Wesley has given her children a splendid heritage. She was an artist of no small merit, and her home was beautifully adorned with exhibitions of her skill in painting. She had also given instruction in this art. She has set a lofty, intelligent, as well as spiritual standard before her family and the forces developed in this direction will go on through many generations. She has made possible her husband's success in the places he has served during the past 27 years.

Demers.

Alice Demers, daughter of Mrs. Julien Demers, died Wednesday at the home of her grandfather, Joseph Bisson. She had been sick since January with tuberculosis. She was 16 years old and a member of the graduating class at the convent, but very popular with her classmates and all who knew her. She is survived by her mother, two brothers, and a sister. The funeral was held Monday morning at Notre Dame, Rev. Ludger Marceau, officiating. The bearers were George Carrier, Ferdinand Nadeau, Henry Dauphin and Joseph Legendre, and the pall bearers were the classmates of the deceased, Misses Mary Turgeon, Clara Lachance, Hermine Pigeon, and Mary Morin. The pupils of the convent and the boys school assisted in the church service. There were beautiful floral offerings. Those called here to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Cleary of Lyndonville, Oscar Lamont and sister of Stanstead, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Aubin of Newport.

Sanborn.

Frank E. Sanborn died Wednesday at Brattleboro where he had been for the last twelve years. Death was due to bulbar paralysis and came suddenly at the last. He was born at St. Johnsbury 35 years ago to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sanborn. Mrs. Sanborn died 22 years ago. Mr. Sanborn and his only child, Mrs. Fabian Brook are now residents of Saugus, Mass. Mr. Sanborn brought the remains here from Brattleboro Saturday and the funeral was held Sunday at the home of Mrs. S. J. Dudley, an aunt of the deceased. Rev. J. M. Frost officiated and interment was in the family lot at Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Mrs. Calista Sanborn of Danville and Mrs. Carrie Calderwood of West Grover were called here to attend the funeral.

Gadapee.

Mrs. Louis Gadapee died Sunday night at her home on Clark avenue after a long illness with tuberculosis. She was born in Waterloo, P. Q., 52 years ago next June and lived there until she came to St. Johnsbury six years ago. She was first married to William King who lived only four years. Nine years ago she was married to Louis Gadapee, who survives her. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Gadapee, brother Thomas and a sister Celina of St. Johnsbury, and two sisters in Waterloo. The funeral was Tuesday morning from Notre Dame church, Rev. L. Marceau officiating.

Fales.

Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fales, died Tuesday morning after a short but painful illness with spinal meningitis. She was a bright, attractive child, a great favorite with her little friends, and her death is a great blow to all who knew her. She was born February 5, 1898, and was a member of the fifth grade, Summerville school. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock and Rev. J. M. Frost will officiate. She is survived by her father and mother, a brother and sister, James and Beatrice, and a grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Taylor.

Scott's New Bakery.

The last few days have been moving days of the most strenuous kind for the F. A. Scott Company, but they have reason to feel well repaid for their labor as the change has given them one of the most modern and thoroughly equipped bake shops in this part of the state, in which sunlight and cleanliness are two of the most striking features. The new bakery is located in the building on Pearl street formerly occupied by Joseph St. John and this building and the room from which they have moved are both connected with the main building on Eastern avenue by wide passage-ways. The new shop has undergone vast changes during the past few months, new and thoroughly up-to-date machinery has been installed, rendering the whole baking process as nearly automatic as possible, and thereby making much easier the handling of this firm's rapidly increasing business. The room from which they have just moved will be used as a shipping department, and this together with the newly completed department will give them upwards of 5000 square feet of floor space in their bakery department alone.

Their mammoth Duhrkot oven occupies the southeast corner of the new building. It is the very latest design and without doubt the largest oven in the state and has several improvements which will greatly facilitate the work. The oven is 14 feet 6 inches by 15 feet 6 inches and has a capacity of 350 loaves of pure milk bread at a baking. Its capacity for a day is 4000 loaves. It weighs over 90 tons above the floor and rests on a foundation of 11 feet of stone and cement, 16 cords of stone and over 50 barrels of cement being used in the construction of the foundation alone.

In the dough room, which occupies the northwest corner, next the street, are the mixer and the troughs. The mixer is the first machine to take up the work of converting the many pure and wholesome ingredients into the appetizing loaf which finally finds its way into so many homes. It is dumped from the mixer into the troughs, where it is allowed to stand until ready for the divider, an extremely interesting and ingenious machine, which automatically cuts it up into the 26 ounce portions allowed for each loaf. These are then rounded up and allowed to stand until a trained eye decides it is time for the moulder, another new machine which does the shaping, to take up the work. It is only a step then to the pans and thence to the oven. The whole process requires about seven hours and must not be varied in the slightest degree, else there is liable to be heard the familiar howl for bread such as mother used to make, which is just the kind this firm are now and have for a long time been sending out to the trade.

The Ordway No. 3 oven, which had formerly been used for bread, will be moved into the new building where it will be used exclusively as a pastry oven. This oven measures 8 feet by 10 inside and is sufficiently large to handle all their pastry business, thus doing away with the confusion of using one oven for both bread and pastry.

Although this may not be the largest bakery in the state, Mr. Scott believes it to be as well or better equipped than any other and is justly proud of this infant industry which is so rapidly outgrowing its swaddling clothes.

"THE ADVENTURES OF MICKEY."

Judge Lindsey's Lecture at Music Hall Friday Night.

Thanks to the enterprise of the Search Light Club of the South church Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Col., came here Friday night and gave a highly interesting and profitable lecture on the problems he has so successfully worked out in his famous juvenile court. The lecturer was happily introduced by Joseph Fairbanks and for nearly two hours held the closest attention of his audience, sometimes convulsing them with laughter as he recited the stories of his court, and again eliciting hearty applause when he told of the triumph of the right over the forces of evil.

He said in part: The child problem is a great and vital problem, and is coming to concern the courts almost as much as it does the schools. Of course in a somewhat different way. Then referring to Mickey as a street Arab of his acquaintance, as the typical case of a boy delinquent, he said he was a creature of environment and tradition. All boys are not law-breakers. In fact, there is no set of fixed rules in the past. The state has been very much handicapped because of the lack of equipment to properly handle this important subject. The courts were bound too much by the rules of criminal law. The tendency has been to treat the case purely from the standpoint of law, without any regard to the effect upon the individual boy. It has gradually come about, however, that we are learning that the greater number of children go to court because they have not learned sufficiently the lessons they should have learned in the home and the school. Because they have not learned these, society has no right to disgrace the boy by giving him a court record.

The juvenile court was established and cases of the character were tried before a chancery, rather than before a criminal court. Under this change, children under 14 who delinquents are now treated as first time, rather than criminals, for the first time in the history of the world. Environment, opportunity and example for evil made children criminal. Even if a child violates the criminal law by larceny, he now comes under the same head as that of delinquents. This change in the judicial attitude toward the child enables the courts to do that for the child which could not be done under the criminal law.

Under this new method those guilty of exposing the child to environment tending to make a criminal of him may be brought into court and fined or imprisoned. For instance, a father who sends his child to the saloon for liquor sends his child into an atmosphere conducive to crime and is liable to arrest and to a fine or imprisonment. Instances of such punishments are numerous. In place of the jail, which a prominent jailer termed "the tobacco slide, or hell," has been substituted the detention school, which combines the best elements of the school and the home. The detention school in Denver costs about $5000 a year for maintenance, whereas the jail cost $75,000. In proportion to population records show that there are twice as many boys brought before the court in this country each year as there are men. Under the old system the jail was the state school for crime; the detention school, on the contrary, is the state school for good citizenship.

Does the new method pay? Jail and reform schools are necessary but they are not so necessary as some people think. A great deal of juvenile crime is directly traceable to the physical condition of the child. There is a strong relation between the physical and moral welfare of the child. What the boy is largely depends on what he eats and wears. In the old days but little consideration was paid to this fact. Twenty-five per cent. of all the serious cases coming before the juvenile court have been found directly traceable to physical defects.

In closing Judge Lindsey spoke of the honor system inaugurated by himself in connection with the commitment of juvenile offenders to detention homes and the older offenders to reformatories and jails. Under this system, which has been in vogue eight years, he has made a practice to place the one sentenced upon his honor to go to the institution where he is to be confined unaccompanied by an officer of the law. In all this time no one has violated this trust and 507 have been so trusted. These so-called criminals must be taught to have confidence in themselves. The honor system engendered this confidence.

"Yama" Coming.

A coming event of importance to theatre goers of St. Johnsbury will be the presentation at New Music Hall on April 21, by Alfred E. Aarons, of one of his most successful musical comedies, "Yama" is a show of oriental environment, material, catchy music and novel scenic specialties. The company is an excellent one, consisting of 50 people. The principal comedian is J. Clarence Harvey, who will be well remembered for his excellent work as the mayor in "His Honor The Mayor." The prima donna role will be played and sung by Miss Violet Colby, who was formerly prima donna with "The Chinese Honey Moon" company. Another feature of this excellent company will be the Original Dancing Dolls, who were especially imported to this country by Mr. Aarons for his musical offerings. As is customary with Mr. Aarons' presentations, the entire company and production will be of the very highest order, and the scenic investiture elaborate.

Automobile Notes.

W. A. Wright was in Boston the first of the week in the interest of his automobile business and also to be present at the completion of the Maxwell non-stop car run, which was finished Monday afternoon, followed by the greatest number of automobiles ever assembled in one procession.

W. H. Worthen has purchased a Ford touring car of W. A. Wright.

A Maxwell Junior $500 runabout is on exhibition at Wright's garage.

Automobile owners will be interested to learn that W. A. Wright while in Boston this week, secured the services, temporarily, of Arthur See, an expert automobile mechanic. Mr. See is one of the Maxwell factory men who participated in driving the Maxwell 10,000 mile nonstop car. With Mr. See comes an experienced, thoroughly reliable and up-to-date repairman, who will have charge of Mr. Wright's automobile repair work the coming season. The adding of this skilled labor, in connection with the present facilities, places the "Wright" Garage in position to cater to this most delicate and essential line of work, effective at once.

Museum Notes.

The flower table has been started with the blossoms of the willow, poplar and alder. The blossoms of the two former are so nearly alike that they are both called "pussy willows" frequently. Hepaticas have been on the table for about a week.

New bird arrivals include the purple finch, March 30, the grackle and phebe, April 6. The special bird case is now in the main hall, the specimens being changed from day to day as new arrivals are reported.

The Museum has been loaned a spinning wheel and a fine old pewter teapot by L. E. Batchelder, and given a $10 Confederate bill by Mrs. W. L. Heath. Several new articles have been added to the Catherine Kidder loan collection. A writing set consisting of an ink bottle, pen wiper and two styles of sand boxes has been loaned by Miss Kidder.

New Cancellor Machine.

The post office has just had installed a new cancellor machine which is the very latest in style and which will greatly facilitate the handling of the incoming and outgoing mail. It has just been built by the American Postal Machines Company of Boston and was installed Saturday by the firm's representative, I. M. Stewart of Boston. The power for the machine is furnished by a one-third H. P. electric motor and the letters are cancelled with lightning rapidity. These cancellors are now in constant use in all the large offices of the country and the boys at the St. Johnsbury office are much pleased that this office can be included in that number that are fortunate to have such a useful machine.

In Police Circles.

John Cook and George Menosh, who were arrested in connection with the recent robbery of L. H. Thornton's store at West Barnet, were given a hearing Friday before Justice J. E. Smith at that place. They were bound up to the June term of county court in $500 each. Being unable to furnish the bonds they were committed to the county jail.

At last some legal highbrow has discovered that the difference between the price of a supper and breakfast and the cost of committing tramps to the county jail, plus $15 for a month's keep in that institution, is worth saving. The cost for committing them is $6.99, making the whole bill for a 30 days sentence $21.99. Twelve hoboes have, during the past week, been given their supper and breakfast and then their transports at a cost of 50 cents each. It is unnecessary to add that the new scheme appeals to the tax-payer more than to the tramp.

One party, who was arrested Thursday for intoxication, appeared before Justice Worcester, Saturday, and settled at the new rate of $10.10. Even at the reduced rates it is rather expensive amusement.

At Summerville.

A Surprise.

Mrs. M. S. Craig, who has been ill for some time, was very pleasantly surprised last Friday when her friends reminded her that it was her birthday, by giving her a post card shower and a "Sunshine Box." The box, which contained about 50 gifts, was filled with books, booklets, linen, silver, china, chocolates, fruit, preserves, jelly, Easter eggs and small sums of money. A novel feature of the birthday reminders was a pill-box, with proper directions thereon, filled with 32 ten-cent pieces, a dime for each year. Mrs. Craig was very much pleased with the postcards and the presents in the "Sunshine Box," not only because of their own beauty and value, but because "back of the gift one always sees the giver."

The Minstrel Jubilee.

The "big noise" is being enthusiastically rehearsed two evenings each week at Y. M. C. A. hall. The chorus will be the largest and best ever seen here, numbering 75 voices, girls, boys, young men and maidens, old men and merry widows. All the old favorites will be found "on the ends," also Welcome and Bailey, two Newport boys, who as exponents of rag-time and "coon shout" songs are in a class by themselves. They also appear in the Olio in their own musical sketch "A Darktown Flirtation." They are "making good" everywhere and have recently received a flattering offer from the Al G. Field show. Many other novel and pleasing features are being arranged and the management propose to give a first-class show regardless of expense. If you enjoy good fun and lively music don't miss the Big Noise, New Music Hall, May 7.

A Statement in Relation to Malt Cream Bread.

There is in circulation a statement that we use alum in our bread, and we take this opportunity to deny and repudiate that statement totally. There has never been a particle of alum used in our bread, and we have never had any in our factory. St. Johnsbury Malt Cream Bread has been extensively used for a number of years and enjoys the reputation of being second to none. The reason for this is that nothing but the best materials are used. No. 1 Malt Extract, full cream milk-tested, sterilized, and condensed, allowing no chance for any old sour milk flavor in the bread—the best and whitest flour made, which is all resifted to insure it against any foreign substance that is liable to get into it, and nothing but the purest shortening, are used. Our factory is supplied with the latest appliances for making bread, and is conducted by workmen of long and successful experience.
